Kick Youngsters overcome problems

By THEODORE G. COUTILISH
ANP News Editor

Renee Britt didn't know how easy it could be to break her stumbling block.

Britt, 10, found out last Thursday at Mt. Pleasant Elementary School in Romulus by karate-kicking it into pieces - literally.

As part of an innovative self-esteem exercise sponsored by the Romulus Help Center, Britt and her 21 classmates were asked to write or draw pictures of personal problems on small wooden blocks and then break them in half.

"My problem is I have a hard time in school," Britt said. "Now when I go back to school, it won't be hard."

The hands-on exercise was part of an experimental program designed to build self-esteem and educate youngsters about the dangers of drugs and alcohol. The first part of the program dealt with drug and alcohol prevention.

The week-long program, which was introduced in 1986, was also staged in July at Cory, Halecreek and Merriam elementary schools and the Romulus Civic Center.

While problem-solving may not be quite as simple as snapping wood boards, the children got the point, according to Vicki Poleni, prevention coordinator for the center.

"They might not have a strong grasp of the block metaphor, but it touched their subconscious as well as being fun," said Poleni, who graduated from Eastern Michigan University last May with a degree in social work.

"The thing we tried to get across is just because you didn't break through the block the first time doesn't mean you can't break through it. It's all positive reinforcement."

The encouraging words stretched far with the children. Just ask 9-year-old Kalena Lambert.

"I wrote down that I have a problem making friends," she said. "Now, I hope my wish will come true with some new friends."

Neighborhood feared the worst

By THEODORE G. COUTILISH
ANP News Editor

Neighbors are worried, but not surprised after Romulus police last week confiscated four pitbull terriers and killed another in a barn at 37147 Wick Road.

Citing problems of heavy traffic and people "hanging out," neighbors described the house in front of the barn as an annoyance.

"I thought it was a dope house because there has been so much traffic in and out," said Howard Dubinsky, 37281 Wick Road, who heard the police gunfire. "It's a quiet neighborhood, but there's always a lot of cars coming and going to that house. Quite frankly, I would rather have somebody else living there."

For Ella Moore, 37333 Wick

Road, thoughts of possible dog-fighting and illegal gambling are disturbing. Especially because the house is directly across from Wick Elementary and Romulus Junior High schools.

"I don't like the idea that one of those pitbulls could get loose," Moore said. "I do a lot of walking and I'm afraid of those dogs because they are so unstable. I'm glad the police are investigating and hopeful they will take some action."

No arrests have yet been made in the case, but there is a strong possibility a warrant may be issued next week, according to police Sgt. Gordon Malaniak. The investigation is pending completion of an autopsy report on the pitbull which police killed, Malaniak said.

Malaniak would not release the name of the owner of the property, who lives in New York, or the names of current tenants. Attempts to reach both parties failed.

Neighbors said tenants include a man known as B.J. and a woman. They believe neither is employed.

"I don't know how the couple makes a living," said one neighbor who wished to remain anonymous. "There's always a lot of traffic there. Not a family-type gathering, either. We're talking about people hanging out."

"I have a feeling this wasn't the first dog fight there."

Family puts sadness aside

By THEODORE G. COUTILISH

Verlie Wilhide watched in relief last week as the driver who killed her husband in a high-speed automobile crash last December was sentenced in Detroit Recorder's Court to 10-15 years in prison.

Wilhide, a Romulus resident who was among 50 friends and relatives present, said afterward her only regret was the court disallowed certain evidence against the driver, Marc Daniel Farr, 34, of Dearborn.

"I felt his driving record should have been entered because he was on a path of destruction. Unfortunately, he destroyed someone else's life," Wilhide said. "But I'm happy it's finally over."

Between 1982 and 1987, Farr was ticketed 17 times for moving violations, had two accidents and his driver's license was suspended three times, according to police reports.

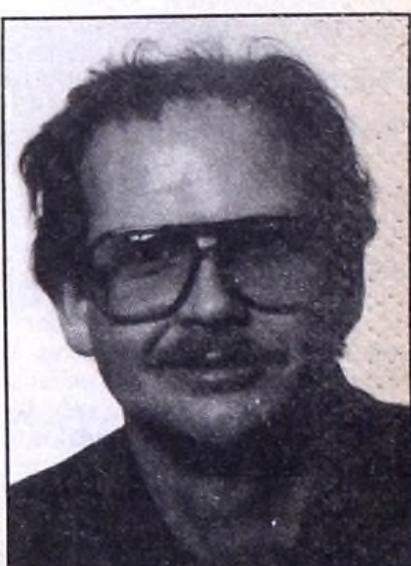

Farr also was on parole following misdemeanor convictions of illegal substance possession in North Carolina and Michigan, the reports indicate.

"It's a sad thing this had to happen," Wayne County Prosecutor Daniel Less said. "Farr was destined for trouble. He showed he couldn't follow directions and was a poor candidate for parole."

While the conviction wasn't what she hoped for, Wilhide said she was happy Farr received the maximum penalty for involuntary manslaughter.

Even more importantly, it means she can get on with her life.

"This means no more depositions, no more going to court and no more seeing (Farr)," Wilhide said. "This is the closing of a tragedy."

For Wilhide, the tragedy began Dec. 28 when her husband, Noel Douglas Wilhide, 37, was driving westbound on Oakwood Boulevard. His car was struck broadside by Farr's car heading south on Southfield Road, according to police reports.

The reports indicated Farr, fleeing from another accident less than one mile away, ran a red light and was approaching speeds of 70 mph.

At the time of the accident, Farr's alcohol blood level was .15, above the legal limit of .10. Tests also revealed Farr had traces of valium and amphetamines in his system, according to reports.

Doug Wilhide was a volunteer firefighter, a licensed emergency medical technician and a fuel house technician for Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn. His father, John, was a one-time Romulus fire chief, and his brother, Mark, is a volunteer firefighter.

Wilhide is survived by his wife and three daughters: Sarah, 12; Melanie, 9; and Jessica, 8.

Flood control is in voters' hands

By BARBARA GOFFMAN
ANP Special Writer

Whether or not Romulus and Taylor residents will receive flood-control protection from Detroit Metro Airport is up to the entire county, according to the assistant county executive.

Airport officials planned to use a majority of the funds collected from the next $100 million bond sale to build a storm water retention system, Mike Duggan said.

However, because of a successful petition drive by Citizens Against Aircraft Noise, a Dearborn based group, the airport officials will be unable to sell the needed bonds unless given voter approval in November.

The city of Romulus has been waging a lawsuit against the county since last March because many residents' homes were damaged after the airport allegedly released runoff from heavy rains into the city drainage and sewage system on Feb. 22, causing basement flooding.

Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally expressed surprise when told the bond sale will effect a water-retention system designed to help Romulus and Taylor.

"I have a strong interest in the flood-control device if it exists and is proposed. However, I have not been given any information from county officials that such a device is imminent," she said.

"If the intention of the bond sale is to control flooding, that has never been said publicly," McAnally continued. "But if they (airport officials) can control flooding, they have the obligation to bond sale or no bond sale."

The sale of bonds is subject to

Former employees buy electric business

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
 Belleville City Editor

For some 25 years, Dingman Electric, Inc. has provided electrical supplies to residential, commercial and industrial accounts in southeastern Michigan. However, in July, three former employees purchased the business from their employer and are continuing operations as Service Electric Supply, Inc.

New owners of the Belleville-based business are Dave Buszka, Randy Lancaster and Bob Pauline.

"When we learned that the previous owners wanted to sell the company and concentrate on some of their other business ventures, the three of us decided to purchase the business," said Lancaster. "It is a profitable business, and we all felt that it would be a successful venture for us. In addition, we preferred to work for ourselves rather than to find other jobs."

After discussions with bank representatives, financing was obtained and the three former employees became a trio of business owners.

"We have a complete line of electrical supplies for residential, commercial and industrial markets, including steel and utility companies," Lancaster said. "We serve Wayne, Washtenaw, Oakland and Monroe counties."

Lancaster, who is a Belleville resident, said the recent revitalization of downtown Belleville was one of the factors that motivated he and his partners to purchase the business.

"With all of the downtown development happening, we felt it would be a shame to leave a large building vacant at one of the main entrances to the city," Lancaster said. "It's a good building and a good location, and we want to be part of the growth of Belleville.

"I feel that I have a real interest in this town. I graduated from Belleville High in 1976 and came to work here in 1979,"

Lancaster said. "The Dingman owners were well-known for their community involvement, and we plan to continue in the same spirit of community interest and support."

Bill restricts phone solicitations

By RANDY FRANK
 ANP Staff Writer

Law enforcement agencies would have a tougher time soliciting funds over the phone if State House Bill 4132 is passed into law.

But so would fraudulent solicitors, which is the intent of the bill, sponsored by Rep. Curtis Hertel, D-Harper Woods.

The bill requires each agency sponsor to apply to the Michigan attorney general for registration. Under the bill, a sponsor is defined as someone who solicits contributions for the benefit of firefighters or police officers.

If passed, annual registration fees would cost $25, or $10 if a sponsor had previously registered.

Sponsors who do not receive annual contributions of more than $1,000 would be exempt from registration. A law enforcement group soliciting funds from within its membership is also exempt from registration.

"It is a reasonable bill," said Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton Township. "I'm going to find out why it has been in the House Consumer Committee for so long."

The bill proposes to limit alleged solicitation fraud, according to Kosteva.

"(The fraud) has been a nightmare for the Canton Police Department," said John Santomauro, director of public safety for Canton. "Every time solicitors are going through the community, the police department is inundated with phone calls asking if these people are legitimate. It becomes a real headache."

"I'm not against fundraisers where the funds go back into the community. What I'm against is outright solicitation."

Police and fire unions have the right to solicit funds, but Canton unions traditionally have not, according to Santomauro.

If the bill becomes law, violators would be fined up to $1,000 or imprisoned for up to six months.

Bonds

A countywide vote because of a petition drive led by CAAN. David J. Esper, CAAN president, said he wants the residents of Wayne County to decide if the airport will expand. CAAN members are against the bond sale because they believe any further expansion will increase the amount of aircraft noise residents have to bear, he said.

It is possible that county residents will deny the airport permission to sell this $100 million worth of bonds because they think they will be stopping noise pollution, while they really only will be denying Romulus and Taylor flood-control measures, Duggan said.

Yet Romulus officials will not be launching an educational campaign to explain the potential bond sale would be used for a storm water retention system and would not effect aircraft noise, McAnally said.

"I haven't heard definitively what the dimensions of the bond sale will be," she said. "Besides, educating the public on this issue is not my role."

Ears bend to noise issue

By BARBARA GOFFMAN
ANP Special Writer

The flight patterns of planes from Detroit Metropolitan Airport, the target of growing concern in cities such as Westland and Dearborn, may soon be changed, said the Wayne County noise czar.

"The Federal Aviation Administration has indicated for the first time that current flight routes are not in concrete," Bryan Amann said.

The change in the FAA position is a result of pressure from Congressmen John D. Dingell (D-Dearborn) and William D. Ford (D-Taylor), Amann said. The congressmen met July 17 with FAA officials to discuss possible noise-abatement procedures.

"We applaud the FAA's decision in March to utilize preferential runways for takeoffs to minimize aircraft noise over our communities," Dingell and Ford wrote in a letter to the assistant administrator for airports of the FAA.

"We also appreciate the meetings the FAA has already had with our community leaders to ascertain the best possible solution to this problem. Nevertheless, much more is needed to be done," they wrote.

The congressmen wrote they were concerned by reports that the FAA was "unwilling" to cooperate in modifying its flight patterns to accommodate those individuals concerned with increased noise. However, during the meeting, they were assured the FAA is flexible and willing to work toward a solution regarding the safety and noise issue.

Responding to the change in the FAA position, Wayne County officials, representatives of Ford, Dingell and Sen. Carl Levin (D-Detroit) and Richard Jamieson, the director of Detroit Metro, met recently to devise the strategy they will use in future meetings with the FAA.

"Ford and Dingell got us access to the upper level of the FAA. The door is open now to negotiations on the flight patterns of planes coming into and leaving Detroit Metro," Amann said.

County representatives are waiting now for a data analysis of the noise resulting from several proposed flight pattern changes, Amann said. Once the results are obtained, he said, he is confident the county will be able to convince the FAA to make substitutions.

Hospital change may affect patient care

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

Along with the recent acquisition of Westland Medical Center by Annapolis Hospital comes many questions about how the hospitals will continue to service the communities in the area.

Before now, there were two emergency rooms available to area fire departments and residents. Now, only Annapolis Hospital in Wayne will handle serious emergencies. The former Westland Medical Center emergency room will handle minor cases only.

"If we have a patient who comes in with a heart attack, we will still be able to stabilize the patient and then send him to Annapolis (Wayne)," said Carla O'Malley, an administrator for Annapolis.

Fire officials and ambulance company representatives from surrounding communities met more than four months ago with hospital administrators recently to discuss the changes, according to O'Malley.

Plans include the expansion of staff and facilities in the Annapolis emergency room, O'Malley said. New waiting rooms, patient areas and trauma care equipment will all be part of the enlarged emergency room.

Annapolis Hospital-Wayne receives an average of 35,000 emergency room patients each year, while Westland Medical Center served approximately 12,000 emergency room patients last year, O'Malley said.

"Some of that activity we can expect to come to Annapolis," O'Malley said.

The change in emergency room care have been taking place gradually, O'Malley said. Local rescue teams have been taking more of their patients to Annapolis-Wayne in recent weeks.

A major catastrophe such as an airplane crash will not catch hospital staff unprepared, said hospital vice president Wade Adams.

Sixteen hospitals make up a group called Health Emergency Medical Services. This organization keeps track of where various types of medical treatment are available and how many beds are open at the different hospitals.

The team is responsible for being the first on the scene in the event of a national disaster anywhere in the country. One of the key members of the HEMS team is Dr. Karl Bandlien, former chief of staff at Westland Medical Center and co-director of the two emergency rooms at the Annapolis Hospital.

"Obviously if we can handle a national disaster, we can handle a local disaster," Bandlien said.

Within two to three hours the five teams from around the country are assembled and on the way to the scene, Bandlien said.

One of the major advantages of the two emergency rooms is, according to O'Malley, that if the emergency room at Annapolis-Wayne is busy, nurses can direct patients who come in with minor emergencies to Annapolis-Westland.

Surgical procedures will be handled at the Wayne location, O'Malley said.

"We have additional room available for surgery here at the Wayne hospital and if we have to we could always use Westland for surgery," O'Malley said.

"The advantage of the consolidation will not only be the additional physicians, but the sharing of expertise. Westland has some physicians with particular expertises that we didn't have before," Adams said.

Mental health services will now be offered at the Westland location.

"This plan enables Westland to provide a much needed unmet need for behavioral and psychiatric services. If you know anyone who has an adolescent who has needed these types of services, they have had to go out of the area up until now," O'Malley said.

Beard edges Johnson in commission race

By RANDY FRANK
ANP Staff Writer

Western Wayne County voters made their selections in the Wayne County Commissioners 11th and 12th District races Aug. 7.

In the hotly contested 12th District race, Wayne County Commissioner Kay Beard (D-Inkster) proved victorious against runner-up Terri Reighard Johnson (D-Westland) in a 3,536 to 2,935 vote.

Beard edged Johnson in Garfield by 160 votes, but Johnson beat Beard in Westland by 213 votes.

Inkster helped make the vote decisive on Beard's behalf. She took 807 votes to Johnson's 153 votes.

Hilliard Hampton received the most votes in Inkster with 1,301 votes.

Beard, an Inkster resident for 37 years, has been the 12th District Wayne County Commissioner since 1978. Prior to her work as a commissioner, Beard was a state representative.

Drugs and crime are two of the major issues Beard sees facing the area. She vows to have better coordination among government agencies.

Beard also would like to see more job opportunities for teenagers and young adults, so they can lead productive lives.

Republican voters in the 11th

Victor Gustafson

District have given the nod to Victor Gustafson (R-Canton Township), who received 2,323 total votes, compared to Linda Chuhran's (R-Canton) 1,290 votes.

With the vote close in eight of the nine 11th District commun-ties, Gustafson trounced Chuhran in their hometown of Canton with a 713 vote edge, 1,215 to 502, to give him the victory.

Gustafson, 50, who has lived in Canton Township for 12 years, is the owner and president of North American Marketing and Consulting.

Gustafson pledged to work with the county to develop a "solid economic base" in Western Wayne County. He also plans to develop a workable solution to the wetland problem in the area.

He and his wife Barbara have three children Kenneth, Julia and Erik.

Incumbent Wayne County Commissioner for the 11th District Milton Mack of the city of Wayne ran unopposed, and garnered 3,157 votes.

Faust wins in primary

By RANDY FRANK
ANP Staff Writer

William Faust (D-Westland) has emerged victorious in the 12th District state Senate primary against challenger James H. Stamps Aug. 7.

Faust received 8,117 votes to Stamps' 1,551 votes.

The incumbent enjoyed strong showings in all eight communities in the 12th District especially Westland and Taylor, where he received more than 3,000 votes each.

Sen. Faust, a 38-year Westland resident, has been a state senator since 1966.

He has also been the Senate majority leader for eight years.

If elected, Faust's top priorities for the next legislative session include amendments to the commercial forest act and an environmental agenda that includes recycling goals.

Faust also seeks to renew efforts to reform the "burdensome" property tax system in Michigan.

He said he enjoys serving people of the 12th District, and feels there's much work needed to be done.

Incumbents gain nominations

By RANDY FRANK
ANP Staff Writer

Western Wayne County voters answered the call to vote in state representative primaries for the 36th, 37th and 38th Districts Aug. 7.

In the 36th District primary for Republican state representatives, incumbent Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) emerged the victor against Kathleen Keen-McCarthy (R-Plymouth).

Law received more votes than Keen-McCarthy in all five communities in the 36th District - Canton Township (part), Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Law, 46, has lived in Plymouth for 19 years. Prior to serving as a state representative he was a financial analyst for Ford Motor Co.

Law proposes to reform the property tax structure, increase the state budget for education and improve solid waste management in the state.

Law has served on the State Affairs and Public Health and Insurance committees and numerous sub-committees.

In the 37th District, incumbent Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton) beat Robert Bell, in a 1,921 to 332 vote, to win the election.

For Kosteva, the big issues for the election are state spending and the continued need for equity and quality in the education system.

Limiting cost oversight of programs, and making sure existing programs are run properly will help stabilize the economy, he said.

In the 38th District, incumbent Justine Barns (D-Westland) won the primary against opponent David Hayter just shy of a two-to-one margin 3,099 to 1,483 votes.

Barns, 65, is currently the chair of Senior Citizens and Retirement committee.

Major issues this election year are education, "an excellent education for all Michigan students," ensuring self-worth of senior citizens, according to Barns.

She has received endorsements from law enforcement groups and firefighters.

1 approved 1 failed

In the arena of financial issues on the Aug. 7 primary ballot, a renewal for Wayne County was approved and a new millage for Wayne County Community College failed.

The Wayne County millage, which goes toward programs such as health care for the indigent, 4-H and much more, received support from 17,169 voters. Nearly 11,500 voters cast negative votes.

The community college millage received 15,449 no votes, while 13,038 votes supported the effort.

Congressman recovers

While news of his primary election totals was being reported, Congressman William Ford, D-15th, was recuperating from surgery in Washington, D.C.

"Congressman Ford is doing well, and his doctors are expecting a quick recovery," said Pat Talmadge, manager of the congressman's Wayne office. "It was a long day for us all. We were very concerned, of course, but, after hearing the reports, we feel confident that he is doing well and will make a quick recovery."

The 25-year member of the U.S. House of Representatives was stricken with peritonitis, an inflammation in the abdominal wall.

Talmadge said Ford had been well the night before his illness, and, apparently, had felt comfortable when he retired for the night. Sometime during the night, he awakened with stomach pains, and visited his physician early the next morning to determine the cause. Following tests, it was determined that the congressman required immediate surgery, Talmadge said.

"We don't have a lot of additional information at this time," Talmadge said early Wednesday morning. "We do know that his doctors feel that he is making a good recovery, and they are impressed with the results of the surgery."

Talmadge said the congressman's aides do not know how long he will be hospitalized, but estimated that he will remain in the hospital for five to 10 days.

Staffers at the congressman's Wayne office noted that Ford had two wins on election day - the first was his unofficial vote count of 17,896, compared to his Republican challengers' totals of 6,987 for Burl Adkins and 4,443 for Glenn Kassel, and his second was "his impressive win during the surgery."

Opinion

It is time to 'get with the program'

The time has come for Canton Township trustees to stop dawdling over a proposal to build a composting facility in that community.

A group of residents have expressed concerns. That is fine.

Appropriate responses and assurances, however, have been given and still the proposal goes nowhere.

As trustees fail to make a decision, the community is losing valuable grants for the proposed facility. An important deadline could be missed.

Then, five years down the road the community will be required to establish a composting facility, and they will have already missed out on this opportunity.

In addition, as a decision hangs in the balance, yard waste and grass clippings are taking up more and more space in our depleting landfills.

It is a natural process - composting. It takes place in fields and wooded areas every day, and yet residents seldom complain when they live next door to these types of properties. Rather, properties bordering wooded areas and fields are often considered prime real estate.

What then is the difference between living next to a forest and living next to a field used for composting?

The natural process of decomposing leaves and bark is not a horrible thing. It is a natural way to provide nutrients to the soil while ridding the area of the dead matter.

Experts with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources have vowed that composting facilities properly managed do not pose a threat to groundwater, and do not cause excessive odor problems.

Those proposing the facility, have agreed to every safe-guard necessary to guarantee that the operation is safe.

Only Canton Township residents will be permitted to dump their yard wastes at the site. Those bringing items, will be checked in at the gate to make sure only the appropriate items are discarded there.

There is really little else to do.

Except to accept it, and to approve it, and to get on with it.

The 1st round is finished

Wayne County voters cast their ballots Aug. 7 in the primary election. Their votes determined who will go on to compete in the second round of campaign politics between now and November.

It would be cliché (and sexist) to suggest the "best man won." It would, however, be appropriate to state that the majority of voters determined the winners.

Those who won the nomination of their political party were qualified candidates with their own goals for their campaign and for their political future.

Those who were not selected by the majority of voters, however, were also qualified candidates for the job. They played the political game (for that is what it is) well, and they deserve some respect for their skills.

Sometimes - not in all cases by any stretch of the imagination - the most unqualified individual in the primary election process is the voter.

Very few voters have an understanding of how the primary works. That misunderstanding could probably best be proved by the fact that so few voters turn out for this step in the process.

Perhaps they don't know how to fill out an absentee ballot or how to select a party affiliation.

More importantly, however, they probably don't understand that if the candidate they like most doesn't receive their vote in the primary they probably won't make it to November.

Nature thanks city council

The Westland City Council is to be congratulated for denying a permit to build condos at Hix and Warren roads. Westland has been saturated with apartments, condos and malls. Many apartment buildings have "apartment available" signs now, and two malls near us, that are several years old, have never been filled. It is time to stop creating a concrete city with unnecessary building.

When cities are rated as to the quality of life they offer their residents, the highly-rated cities consist of almost all single-family homes. When multiple dwellings are new there are no great problems except for traffic congestion and increased demand on city services, but after some years we fear we may have the same problems of population control and crime that the larger cities have when so many people are crowded together in a small area.

An even more important reason the denial of permit was necessary is the condos were to border the William P. Holliday Wildlife Preserve, and construction would destroy much of that wildlife. We need to work to save the area around this Preserve, so future generations will always be able to enjoy nature and wildlife in the city.

We bought our "country" building site 36 years ago. We were surrounded by woods and farms, and our back yard was filled with wildflowers and many species of birds and animals. As the land on our borders was developed, most of the wildflowers and many of the birds and animals disappeared. We don't want this to happen to Holliday Wildlife Preserve.

Dorothy Smiley and Jack J. Smiley

Where is the answer?

I read with some interest and not a little bemusement the Letter to the Editor of July 26 by Mr. Moranty of the "Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education." (The title of this group, considering the goals, is a near-perfect oxymoron.)

Mr. Moranty, among other things, demands the Wayne-Westland Schools restore student programs and recall laid-off employees. The question left unanswered, however, is how? With what? Even a person suffering from a case of terminal stupidity would be aware that cuts were made and employees laid off in the face of a massive deficit.

Mr. Moranty's group demanded cuts in various areas, and now that the cuts have been made, the whining commences (Many cuts, incidentally, were made in administrative staff).

Programs which have been gutted by financial problems may some day be partially restored, but Mr. Moranty ignores one critical problem: People in key areas who have left the district, some because of lay-off, some because of uncertainty, are gone forever. These people include an outstanding head basketball coach at Wayne Memorial, an excellent band director at John Glenn and many other fine and skilled employees from both teaching and administration. How will the experience and abilities of these people ever be replaced? (By the way, virtually all the people who left Wayne-Westland were eagerly hired by other school districts at considerable increases in pay.)

Mr. Moranty seems proud of his "accomplishment" in successfully working for the defeat of the millage, but he offers no specific answers for remedying severe financial short-falls in the face of deficits. Perhaps instead of basking in smirking self-congratulation, he could come up with a concrete, precise plan of action, based somewhere within the realm of reality, to remedy the financial problems of the district.

Finally, Mr. Moranty suggests the Administration and Board of Education "get out of the way." The question is, out of the way of whom? Perhaps people of Mr. Moranty's ilk, so the process of educational destruction may be completed?

H.D. Waldschmidt

Thumbs down to council

A big thumbs down to the Romulus City Council on your decision to prohibit the memorial service for Flight 255.

I have lived in Romulus for three years. In fact, we moved into Romulus after getting married, which was a week before the crash. Though we have never attended a service, nor had any relatives on the flight, we were involved and feel "connected."

We live one mile from the crash site, my father works for Avis (whose main building was hit) and was there to help after the crash, and my husband, was called into work on emergency stand-by, in case of survivors.

I have never heard of any problems during the memorial service and think it is a very poor decision on the council's part to make such hard requirements for public gatherings at this late date.

Also of question is the status of this ordinance in regards to the First Amendment in that it limits the freedom of speech and the freedom of assembly. Is the council prepared to pay the cost of defending this ordinance in Federal Court, as it will inevitably have to do?

Saying that people should get on with their lives and stop grieving is a big cop-out.

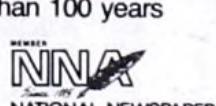

Margaret L. Stetler

Zebra mussels pose threat

By JEFF HAWKINS
ANP Staff Writer

The water you're drinking is safe, according to the medical director of the Wayne County Health Department.

In response to concern about zebra mussels, Donald Lawrenchuck of the county health department said Monday the water supply to the area "does not contain foreign bacteria that could cause harm if consumed."

Some residents of Van Buren and Sumpter townships, as well as Belleville, have complained about a strange taste and odor to their water. Officials said this can be attributed to the fact that water supplies are being heavily chlorinated in an effort to clean water lines.

There are no health hazards associated with this treatment, officials said.

In an effort to reduce the current taste and odor problems, the City of Detroit is re-routing its water supply downriver. Also, Detroit is increasing the amount of activated carbon treatment to further reduce the infected odor and taste.

In the meantime, the zebra mussels are, however, feared to be causing a major inconvenience for Detroit residents as they are believed to be holding fort in the Detroit River and Lake St. Clair.

"There has not been one confirmed case of zebra mussels in any inland lakes," Lawrenchuck said. "But it is a clear possibility that it could spread. We've been fortunate so far."

Zebra mussels are small parasites that attach themselves to boats and other floatable material. They cause the water to taste and smell unusual, and can do considerable damage, Lawrenchuck said.

"I haven't seen any evidence of zebra mussels in Belleville Lake," said Ron Spitzer, district fisheries biologist for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. "From everything I have seen or heard there is nothing out of the ordinary happening in the lake."

"Both the Detroit and Windsor Water Departments are acting responsibly and hope to improve this situation in the immediate future," said Glenn Brown, Wayne County Environmental Health Director.

Sue
Willett

Boy, am I depressed. We're talking industrial-strength depressed. We're talking DEPRESSED.

It's my sister. My dear and beloved sister whom I adore has begun to exhibit all the signs of the mental deficiencies and peculiarities which have set our family members apart from the norm for so all these many generations.

Oh sure, I've made light of the members of my family who are less than brain-trust material. I've joked about my relatives who consider any U.S. Mail vehicle a sex object and have a particular prejudice for those little rural delivery trucks. And I admit, I was one of the people who laughed at Cousin Twila who attempted suicide by sticking her head in the electric oven. But this is my sister. My ONLY sister. This is my beloved, dear, cherished and adored blood kin we're referring to here.

This is what happened. It's difficult for me to reveal this, but perhaps it will be cathartic for me to spill my guts.

There I was, sitting in my office, minding my own business when the phone rang. So, professional businesswoman that I am, I answered it, "Yeah, whatdya want?" You know, just the way they teach you in business school. It was my sister who phoned to tell me about her pickles.

She spent the entire WEEK making pickles. You know, boiling jars, getting lids, mixing spices and vinegar and who knows what else and then stuffing cucumbers in jars full of the stuff to make pickles. A WEEK.

The woman could not eat this many pickles if it was her primary nourishment for all her remaining days. She could not, even with the help of her children and spouse, eat this many pickles if she were as young as I tell people I am.

Is this the first sign? Will she go the way of Grandma Fanny and soon be wearing tennis shoes everywhere, even to bed? Will we soon be paying her bail at the police station after she's arrested for sexually accosting a police officer (or three or four of them as in Fanny's case)? Will the day come when she falls into a loaded trash can at the curb, passes out, and has to be retrieved from the local dump following garbage collection?

Is my own sister soon to start smearing her dog with WD40, the miracle cure for mange she reads about in the National Enquirer? Will she go the way of several of the dowagers in our family and soon be out on the expressways, driving 30 mph in the left lane, looking for Elvis?

This isn't a pretty situation. Look folks, anybody who will spend a week making pickles is probably still excited about the wheel. And if that's not bad enough, she called me back this week to tell me that now she's made ZUCCHINI pickles. Is this proof of mental instability or do we need an armed hostage situation? My only sane, normal relative is slipping over the very edge of sanity into the great barrel of pickle brine on the other side.

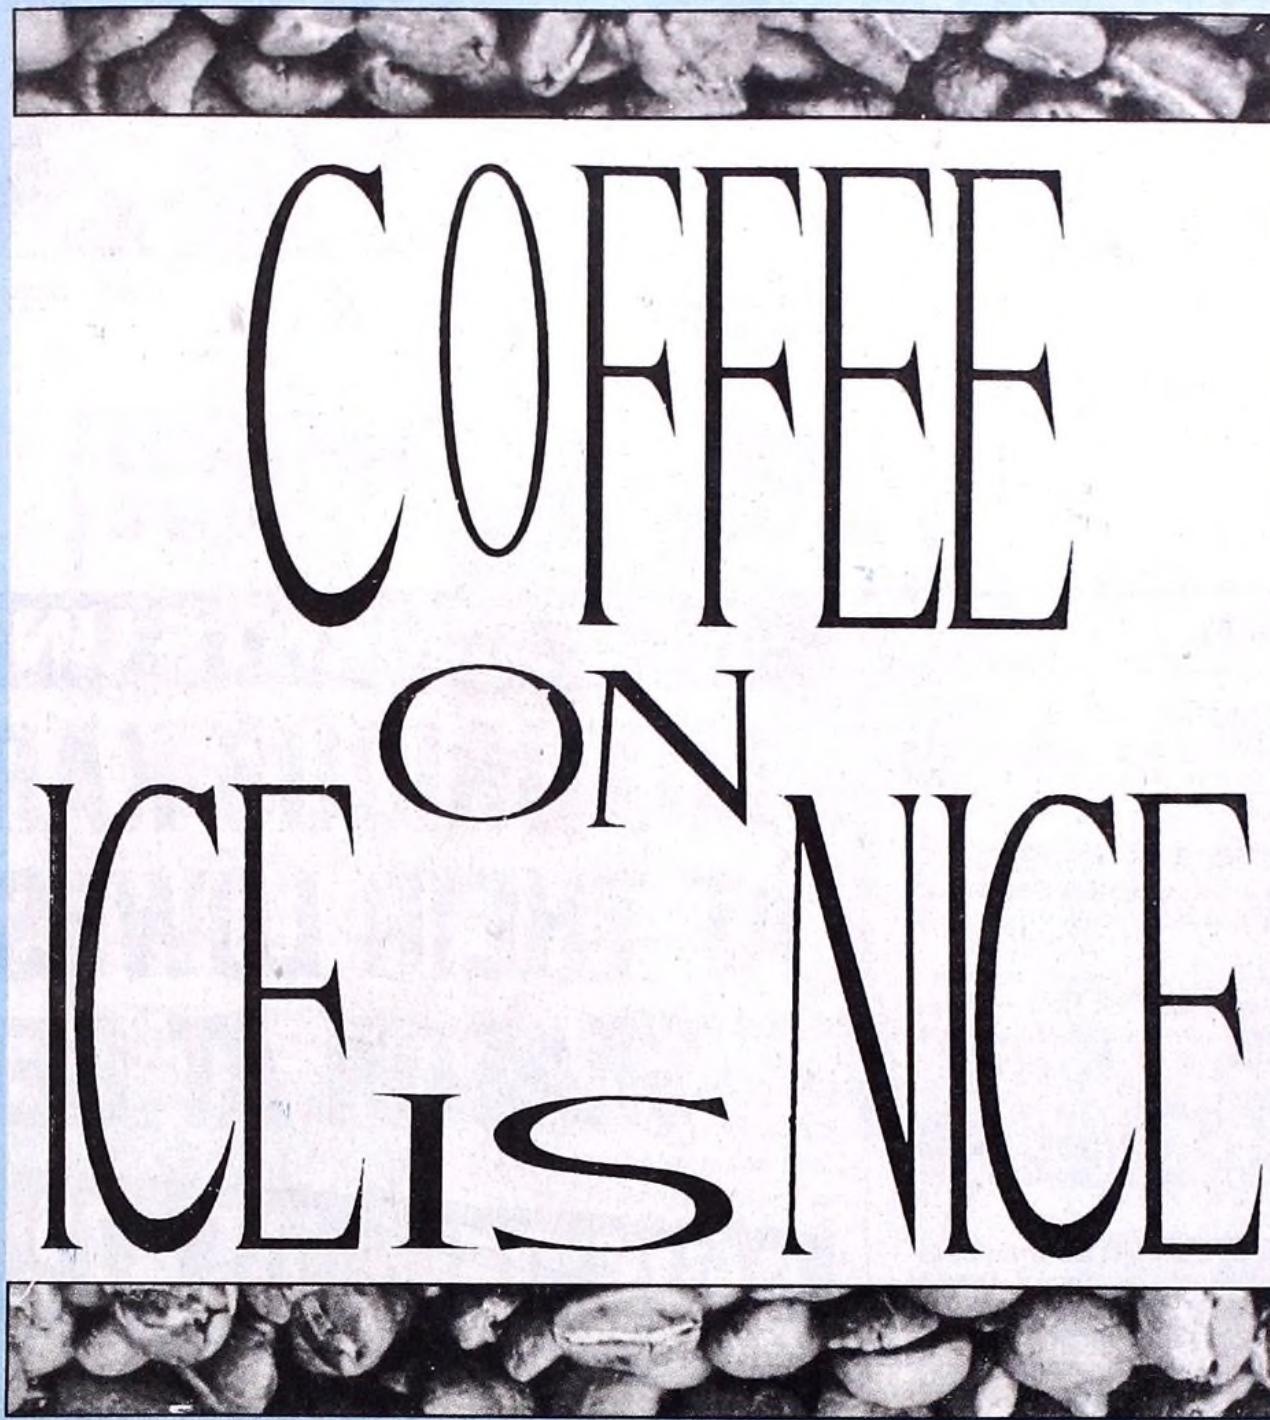

And if she's slipping, can I be far behind?

There is only one cure for such a bleak mood. Cookies! Enjoy.

Does the thought of drinking cold coffee send a chill down your spine?

Then you haven't tried "Iced Fudge Ripple" or "Caribbean Iceberg," two dessert coffees offered at The Coffee Beanery in the Westland Shopping Center.

"We have people who come in three or four times a week just for the Iced Fudge Ripple," said Jennifer Blandi, an employee at the Coffee Beanery.

No one has ever complained who has tried this specialty which has been offered for several years, Blandi said.

Equally popular is the new "Caribbean Iceberg." The Coffee Beanery Ltd. reports more than 10,000 of these drinks have been sold in their 32-store chain since the promotion began June 29. Iced coffee is a tasty alternative to soft drinks or the usual cup of mocha that's served up piping hot. The non-dessert iced coffees are low-calorie, economical thirst quenchers. You can use leftover morning coffee, instead of dumping it down the drain, for a refreshingly cool treat.

Though they are categorized as "gourmet," iced coffees are easy to prepare. You use the same equipment for brewing hot coffee, but make the coffee double the regular strength. When it's done, simply allow it to cool to room temperature. If served black with ice, it is an especially low calorie beverage (a 10-ounce glass has less than one calorie). Add flavorings, sweeteners, cream or ice cream if you have a craving for something richly flavored, or when you don't feel like thinking about calories.

Decaffeinated coffees may be used for iced coffee, so you can enjoy them any time of the day.

Below are a sampling of the specialty iced coffee recipes provided by the Beanery:

Iced Fudge Ripple

one pot of vanilla nut cream coffee
one pot Swiss mocha almond coffee
8 ounces sugar
6 ounces Kayro Syrup or thick chocolate syrup
Half-n-Half cream to taste

Brew coffee double strength. Add sugar while coffee is hot. Cool to room temperature and add syrup. In bottom of glass, pour an ounce or two of cream. Add coffee and ice. Top with whipped cream, if desired.

Iced Mocha Mint

1 pot regular coffee
3/4 cup chocolate syrup
1/4 teaspoon peppermint extract
whipped cream

Brew coffee and cool to room temperature. When coffee has cooled, add chocolate and peppermint extract. Serve on ice with whipped cream.

TRAVEL, ENTERTAINMENT &amp; DINING

Vacation bonus stop closer than you think

Let's play Jeopardy.
The answer is Greenfield Village and the Henry Ford Museum.

Bzzzt. Alex, what is the only international tourist attraction in western Wayne County?

That's correct. Bonus points if you know that the indoor-outdoor museum complex is so close that sometimes the two treasures of American history and technology are taken for granted.

A good way to rediscover the unique complex is to visit it with someone from another state or country. By looking at the attractions through the eyes of a first-time visitor, area residents can gain a deeper appreciation of the complex.

Among first-time visitors this summer are French, Spanish and German students, sponsored by the Nacel Cultural Exchange. Knowledge of American history is gained through the exhibits and demonstrations the students view on their day-long visit.

Demonstrations of printing, glassmaking, silk processing, pottery making and wool carding are slated at regular daily intervals. In addition, farming techniques are demonstrated at the Firestone Farm, and a milliner shows her skills in creating 1860s-era hats in Mrs.

Cohen's Millinery Shop.

The trip to Greenfield Village doesn't have to be all educational and no play. In fact, 19th century toys and activities for youngsters are available in the Village Activities Center and on the village green outdoors throughout the day.

After a bit of coaching, youngsters - along with their parents - may try their skills at matching those of children a century ago in spinning a top, rolling a hoop or flipping a ball into a cup.

Other village highlights include:

- Cotswold buildings, 17th century limestone buildings, which were moved from Gloucestershire, England.

- Eagle Tavern, a 1850s-era inn, which was a stop-off place for travelers.

- Henry Ford's birthplace, a typical midwestern farmhouse which was the childhood home of the auto industrialist.

- Logan County Courthouse, where Abraham Lincoln practiced law.

- Thomas Edison's Menlo Park compound where many significant inventions were made.

- Susquehanna Plantation, a tidewater 1860-era plantation.

- Wright Cycle Shop, where Orville and Wilbur Wright pioneered machine-powered flight.

The 81-acres of developed exhibits are open daily between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Hours are the same for the Henry Ford Museum, which features 12 acres of decorative arts, home arts, lighting, communication, machinery and agriculture exhibits.

A two-day combination ticket to visit both the museum and the village is $18 for adults and $9 for youths. Separate admission fees are $10.50 for adults, $9.50 for senior citizens and $5.25 for children five through 12. Annual passes also are available.

NEPAL - ROOF OF THE WORLD

When you visit Nepal, just East of India, take plenty of film because you'll be viewing the highest and most breathtaking mountains in the world. A one hour sightseeing flight over the "roof of the world" provides spectacular close-up views of the vast granite and snow ridges of the Himalayas with a Shangri-la of green valley and meandering streams below them. You'll see the highest peak on earth, 29,028 foot Mt. Everest straddling the Tibet-Nepal border - an unparalleled opportunity for photographs.

Kathmandu and its two suburbs, Patan and Bhadgoan are the only large cities in Nepal. Patan boasts the circular "city of beauty," with its many palaces and temples embellished with intricately carved gods and goddesses. In the sister city of Bhadgoan shines Bodnath, the largest Buddhist stupa in the world, and a sacred temple near the holy River Bagmati, where you may be fortunate enough to see a holy ritual.

For an exciting trip of a lifetime - NEPAL!

It's showtime

Local golfers begin quest for 31st annual city championship titles

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It's "showtime" for local golfers who will launch their bids to become city champions over the weekend.

The 1990 summer classic will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday with a field that, for the first time in recent years, will not include a defending champ. It will conclude Sunday afternoon.

"As it stands now, it appears that we will have new champs for each of the cities involved," said Bill Hawley, tournament manager. "This is one of the smallest fields that has gotten together for this tournament, and, it should be interesting to see who comes out of this the winners."

The 36-hole, two-day tournament will be staged at Fellows Creek Golf Course, 2936 Lotz Road in Canton Township. Lotz Road is located off of Michigan Avenue West, just before the I-275 Expressway.

Competitors will play 18 holes the first day and return for the championship round on Sunday. Tee times for the finals will be available early Sunday morning.

As it stands now, there are no defending champs returning. That means we should have new champions for each of the participating communities.

— Bill Hawley
Tourney manager

The tournament will decide the city and township championships for the cities of Wayne, Westland, Romulus, Inkster and Canton Township.

Rules will be issued to the golfers at the golf course, Hawley stressed.

The tournament format helps recreation officials determine the makeup for their teams for the 1990 state parks and recreation championships. The state finals will be conducted later this summer.

The top five scorers from each city are eligible to play on the city team at the state meet. However, the golfer must be a bona fide resident of the city he will represent at state.

Trophies will be awarded to the top finishers of their flight, and in case of a tie for a trophy, the golfers involved will play a 'sudden death' playoff to determine the winner.

There will also be a separate trophy awarded to the medalist (low-scorer) for the entire field.

Wayne golfers will also be playing for the Patrolman Leonard J. Anderson Trophy. The traveling trophy is presented to the medalist from Wayne.

Battle for city title set

And then there are two who will duel for the Inkster summer basketball league championship.

After knocking off their opponents last Saturday, coaches Merv Harris and Leslie Reynolds will take their respective clubs into the championship round of the inaugural Inkster Summer Basketball League.

The championship will be decided at 3 p.m. on Saturday at the Inkster Recreation Complex. The complex is located on Middlebelt Road, quarter-mile north of Michigan Avenue.

A consolation game pitting the all-stars from the six remaining teams in the league will be staged at 2 p.m.

There is no admission charge, and fans are invited to attend the games.

Terry Harris pumped in 31 points and teammate Kevin Packer counted 10 to lead the Harris team to a 72-66 victory over B.T. Wimberly in the semi-final round of the playoffs.

Wimberly's wasted an outstanding performance from star Andrea Davis, who pumped in a team high 23 points. Mark Robinson added 11 and Darryl Green sank 10 points for the losers.

In the other bracket, Leslie Reynolds pulled an upset and surfaced on top of a 64-59 decision with Darryl Lewis' ball club.

Charles Williams and former Wayne Memorial cage star Kevin Hankerson sparked the winners with 15 points each. Leslie Reynolds added 15 points.

Michael Aaron's game-high 22 points for Lewis' were not enough, however. The former Robichaud High cage great, who is presently at the University of Detroit on a full-ride basketball scholarship, didn't get much scoring support from his teammates.

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Belleville's National Girls' fast-pitch softball team made their initial appearance in district competition an auspicious one.

Coach Gary Pietrowski and the All-Stars captured the Michigan 3 District Championship.

"I have to say this for the team - there isn't just one star on this team, but everyone helped out and that's why we won the title," Pietrowski said.

In the best-of-three series, Belleville humbled Clinton 26-4 as winning pitcher Kristie Rein received more than ample hitting support to put their rivals out of the playoffs.

Belleville's Jeni Christman belted a grand slam homer to lead the champ's hitting assault.

However, Belleville found the going rough in the qualifying games for the state championship. They ran up again a tough Essexville club which handed the Belleville team its first loss, 19-2. Then, in the second round, Cheboygan bounced Belleville from further play, 14-7.

This is the first time a team from Belleville has gone to state," Pietrowski said, "and the lack of experience definitely was a factor.

"But I can say this, that we learned a lot from this experience and look forward to returning a year from now."

With Rein providing the key to Belleville's pitching efforts, the champs also had a lineup that consisted of Kellie Krajewski (first base), Tammy Pietrowski (second base), Alyson Folks (shortstop), Tracy Cornett (third base) and outfielders Regina Putman, Kelra Rise, Heidi Alford, along with catcher Jeni Christman and rover Jami Banas. Other standouts included Kris Reynolds, Melissa Pack and Samantha Boike.

The champs were also coached by Bruce Reynolds.

Long, Mills team up in benefit

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Some of the greatest names in professional basketball will come together on Tuesday for a good cause - to help raise funds for the athletic programs at Romulus High.

Former Romulus cage great Johnny Long, along with cousin Grant Long and nephew Terry Mills will be playing in a benefit game at Romulus High.

The game is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, August 14 at the Romulus High School.

"I think it's just great that these former Romulus ball players will return to help our program," said Romulus head basketball coach Chris Molloy.

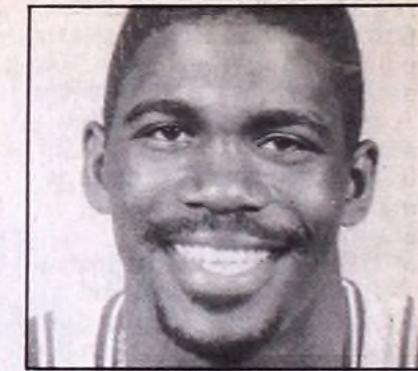

Molloy said he is hoping to get a commitment from one of the Detroit Pistons to play here and "there are some other well-known NBA players who we are talking to. "However, the Johnny and Grant Long and Terry Mills grew up here and are well known."

Mills, who blossomed into a 6-10 forward-center at the University of Michigan, will be playing for the Denver Nuggets this season, while his uncle, Johnny Long, after an outstanding NBA career with the Pistons, is a free agent and is looking for a new NBA home.

Grant Long, who launched his NBA career with the expansion Miami Heat, was voted the MVP of that team last season.

Tickets for the benefit are $5 and may be obtained at the door.

Fairground folly

Belleville to host demolition derby

The demolition derby is coming to Belleville. The popular event, staged in association with the annual Wayne County 4-H Fair, will be staged at the Fairgrounds starting at 7 p.m. Sunday, August 12.

Admission is $5 for adults, and $3 for children 12 and under.

"The smashing and crashing of tons of American-made automobiles draws large crowds at country fairs," said promoter Sonny Hall of the U.S.A. Demolition Derby and Figure 8 Derby Inc.

Hall started racing in demolition derbies as a hobby then, 11 years ago, began promoting his own, the U.S.A. Demolition Derby.

The U.S.A. Derby Association is sponsoring the derby and anyone with a used junker, willing to do what otherwise is a very expensive venture, is invited to enter. There is a $20 entry fee, which entitles the driver to compete for cash and prizes, which entitles the driver to compete for cash and prizes.

Only one car can be used during the event which will feature preliminary heats and a final feature heat.

Although to most these cars look like junkers, they also have some mechanical modifications that cost time and money. Wheel wells are cut away so tires are not easily trapped by caved-in fenders. Then, all glass is also removed for safety purposes.

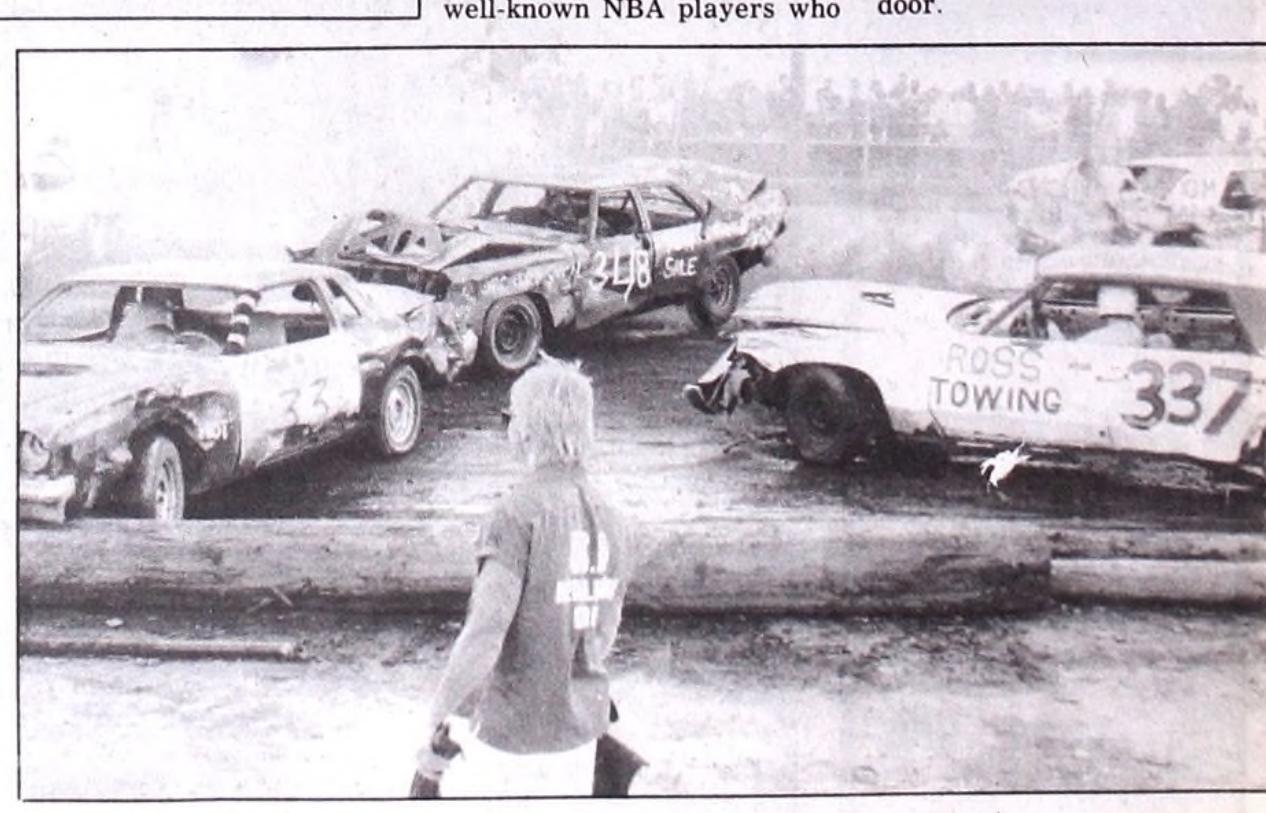

Holes are cut in hoods for cooling and to make it easier to extinguish engine fires.

Because speeds are relatively slow and drivers wear lap belts and helmets injuries are rare except for an occasional cut, bruise, or wrenched neck or back.

But the cars don't get off so easily. Some have lasted through half-dozen derbies before giving up their ghost. Most, however, finish as mangled heaps in the dirt and dust of the fairgrounds.

But they have died nobly and sometimes booted by wildly enthusiastic spectators.

Local drivers who need further information or sponsors may telephone 483-0574 for information.

To the survivor of the demolition derby, there are prizes and cash. And for the fans, the Sunday, August 12 derby in Belleville will offer the sights and sounds of grinding metal and cars crashing to see which is most durable of them all. ANP special photo

Inkster finds gold, 9 medals at track finals

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Inkster athletes fared well at the 33rd annual Detroit Metropolitan Youth Fitness Meet as they picked up one gold and eight other medals last week.

Rica Barge was the lone Inkster gold medalist. She had the top toss in the girls' softball throw in Class B.

However, the city also had a pair of silver medalists.

Freddie Taylor was runner-up in the boys' agility run for Class A runners; while the parks and recreation's shuttle relay entry in Class B was also second. The line-up for the shuttle included Akeela Carter, Catraca Dick, Milton Miller, and Billy Bozeman.

There were more than 2,000 young athletes competing in seven events at the 1990 meet, which was staged at Kensington Park. The 2,000 athletes represented the finalists from more than 40 communities who had to qualify from their cities and townships before becoming eligible for the finals.

The annual meet is co-sponsored by the Blue Cross/Blue Shield and the Detroit Metropolitan Youth Fitness Organization.

Other local medal winners included Derrick Harrell, who placed third in the 75-yard dash (Class A); Richard Cooper, who was third in the boys' standing long jump (Class A); Kemoni Bozeman, also a bronze medalist in the boys' running broad jump (Class A); Charles Purvis, third in boys' chinning (Class A); and Curtis Rucker, third place in the boys' standing long jump (Class D).

Inkster also earned a third-place medal for its efforts in the Class D shuttle relay. The team consisted of Levon Eady, Angela Casey, Darren Ewing and Roxanna Frazier.

"We are proud of the team we sent to this meet and each and everyone's contribution," said Ron Wolkowicz, recreation director.

Regional class offered at college

By MARY SHIRODA
ANP Special Writer

Learning about nature or numbers is cheaper this summer.

By consolidating the summer high school programs of six districts into one, each district saved money, according to a co-administrator of the program.

Fred Novak said the special regional program was put together this year by Wayne County Community College and the six districts to lift some of the financial burden from individual schools.

Among other savings, the new plan included paying one administrator's salary, instead of six, he said.

Teachers from the six districts, which include Van Buren Township and Huron Township, instructed 135 students in English, science, math, algebra, history, geography and health.

Students who had learning problems, who missed a lot of school due to illness or who simply wanted to get ahead could earn up to one and one-half credits in the six-week program, Novak said.

Each student paid a $99 tuition fee per class.

Response to the innovative program has been favorable, Novak said.

"We get positive feedback from the kids," he said. "They've had full use of the computer classroom and the library."

Private group asks for improved roads

By BARBARA GOFFMAN
ANP Special Writer

Poorly maintained roads cost the average Michigan motorist about $1,100 each year, a Washington, D.C.-based highway research group estimates.

The figure includes $108 for driving on substandard roads and bridges and $993 on excess motor fuel and personal time sitting in traffic, the group said.

Another finding indicated Michigan is spending less today for maintenance of state and local roads and bridges than in the past, although the number of motorists has increased, creating costly traffic situations.

"Michigan's most heavily traveled roads are deteriorating under increasing traffic and inadequate spending," said Sally Thompson, director of research for The Road Information Program.

"In 1984 the Federal Highway Administration reported that 59.1 percent of the state's arterial and collector road system was rated in poor or fair condition; by 1988, despite five years of capital improvements, 59 percent was still rated in poor or fair condition."

The condition of Michigan bridges are no better, she said. Nearly one-third of those taller than 20 feet are structurally unsound.

"The history of spending for highway and bridge construction and improvements in Michigan paints a dramatic picture of rapidly increasing demand on a system that was not improved and expanded fast enough to keep up," Thompson said.

"These findings reflect dramatically on our crumbling infrastructure," said Lawrence W. Martin, executive director of the Michigan Road Builders Association, which commissioned the study.

"They point to a deteriorating situation that could have an extremely negative impact on the entire economy of our state."

An effective highway system depends on a partnership between the private and public sector, Thompson explained. The state economy could grind to a halt if the trend of public investment in the state highway system at all governmental levels is not reversed.

"The private sector owns and operates the fleet of vehicles; the public sector provides the roads and bridges for travel," Thompson said. "But private investment in personal autos and commercial vehicles is wasted without an efficient network of public roads."

"Poor physical conditions add to vehicle operating costs and delays, resulting not only in a net drag on the economy but also increasing costs for drivers."

Thompson urged the state administration to address the physical condition of its roads and bridges expediently. It can cost up to five times as much to restore a road in Michigan once it has deteriorated into poor condition than if it was repaired while the pavement is in fair condition, she said.
